PRESENTS: Stephen Wagner, D.D.S.

“Optimal Implant Supported Prosthetic Design For Edentulous Patients”

Dr. Stephen Wagner is a native of Albuquerque, NM. Dr. Wagner went to dental school at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. He spent a year in a general practice residency at the Wadsworth Veterans Hospital in Westwood, California, where he received the outstanding dental resident award. In 1976, he began a two year prosthetics program at MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas. It was here that he learned the techniques required to restore patients with difficult dental problems. Upon returning to Albuquerque, he joined the faculty of the New Mexico Cancer Center and University of New Mexico Medical School. He has now been in private practice in Albuquerque since 1978.

Course Objectives

Dental implants have become the standard of care and are quickly becoming an integral part of the dental practice. Learning how to provide better implant prosthetics with a greater degree of precision can reduce stress on you, the practitioner, through your use of new advances in dental technology.

- Take the guesswork out of restoring esthetics, phonetics and function using removable restorations
- Master guidelines for implant restoration planning
- Create excellent impressions and verification stents for implant restorations
- Learn how to improve lab communication for predictable removable prosthetics
- Learn CAD-CAM implant prosthetics for Removable Restoration
