

Candid camera - get an insider's view of your mouth

WOW! Look at what my dentist does for me!

To provide you with the finest possible dental care, we use a wireless intraoral camera as an added benefit to your oral evaluation at Dr. Fong's office.

Back in the old days, your dentist would perform a dental exam and tell you about a cavity here, tartar build-up there, and maybe a molar on the verge of fracturing. And you would have to contort your mouth to get a glimpse of it in the mirror or use your imagination to picture the damage. Since you can't see what we see, it's difficult to understand our concern for potential problems we might detect.

Similar to a dental mirror, a miniature TV camera will be used to zoom in on individual teeth enabling us to see (and detect) small dental problems before they become large ones. The close-up pictures of any decay, cracks or broken fillings on teeth can be on a color monitor. Finally, you can see what we see, and whatever treatment is needed becomes that much more understandable.

Dr. Fong's office doesn't charge any extra for the video evaluation. You deserve the best, so call and make an appointment for a high-tech television exam. You'll be amazed at how much computer-aided dentistry can contribute to giving you a healthy mouth and a beautiful smile!
