

Recognizing Excellence in Cosmetic Dentistry

The American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry has just honoured the first dentist in Atlantic Canada with accreditation status. Halifax Dental Studio's Dr. Jenine Arab O'Malley, a lifelong resident of Halifax, is distinguished as one of only 14 dental professionals across Canada and 348 worldwide to have achieved accreditation status in the AACD.

Dr. Arab O'Malley joined eight other international dental professionals at the 2015 AACD Conference in San Francisco this May to be formally awarded the accreditation honour.

This unique designation requires the highest level of technical skill and competency in cosmetic dentistry and takes years to complete. The process was both an empowering and humbling journey for Dr. Arab O'Malley. "The challenges of difficult case selections, the rigorous AACD protocol coupled with the personal and time commitments required a perseverance that I attribute to my father, whose hard work and determination inspired me throughout my educational endeavours," she says. "It is indeed sad that he could not be here to witness this achievement. He would have been very proud."

At her clinic in Clayton Park, Dr. Arab O'Malley performs a full spectrum of dental services, where she incorporates a blend of artistic sensitivity and technical ability, ranging from cosmetic bonding to full mouth reconstruction. She has applied new technologies and scientific applications to her practice, which enables a focus on non-invasive restoration of aesthetics and wear. ■
