

The Hart and Coco Promise:

We care.

At Hart and Coco, we vow to take a personal interest in you and your dental healthcare needs. Too often in both our experience and the past experiences of our patients we have found healthcare to be disconnected and impersonal. Not here. We will listen to you and your needs, and will treat you as the important individual you are.

Quality Materials:

At Hart and Coco, we understand that full mouth dental treatment is a serious investment in your long-term, overall health and happiness. That's why we use only the finest quality materials made by the best manufacturers in the industry. We have spent years researching materials and the companies that make them to offer you the best of what the world has to offer. We take pride in what we do, and the materials we use help us deliver exceptional results.

Crowns to last for a lifetime.

At Hart and Coco all of our crowns are metal free. We are noticing a trend of patients developing allergies to the metals used in the majority of the crowns on the market today. Hart and Coco is now one of the few practices in the country to make such an investment and switch to metal-free materials. What have we found since the switch? Our patients have healthier gum tissue, better results at their six month cleanings, an elimination of the grey line at their gum tissue, and a sense of pride and confidence in the investment they have made in their mouth. Also, the strength of our metal-free crown is unsurpassed on the market today. What that means is a happy, healthy mouth for years to come.

Dentures that don't look like Dentures.

All dentures are not created equal. The most important part of a denture is its teeth. At Hart and Coco, we replace dentures every day, and in our experience, have noticed overwhelmingly that patients want to replace their denture due to reasons related to the teeth used to make it. Low quality teeth will yield a low quality denture. At Hart and Coco, we have always used the highest quality tooth available to us, and we have found the results to be exceptional. Dentures can be a work of art, and be as natural appearing as you want them to be, if the person making them uses the best materials.
